DR. REILEY'S LECTURE.—Dr. J. Mc-Kendree Reiley, of the Fourth Street M. E. Church, delivered his new lecture upon "The Centennial" in his church last E. Church, delivered his new lecture upon "The Centennial" in his church last night before an intelligent and appreciative audience. The Doctor is a deep thinker as well as a close reader, and possesses the happy faculty of holding the attention of those who hear him in public. His address was listened to with much interest. We give below an abstract of his remarks:

The desire to achieve the the utmost significance at the American Centennial is natural. From antiquity, of course, it acquires nothing. A hundred years crowded into the lifetime of one man, now-a-days, makes him a wonder for his now-a-days, makes him a wonder for his longevity. In the life of a nation, it now-a-days, makes him a wonder for mailongevity. In the life of a nation, it merely describes a cycle of its beginnings. Yet nations, tender aged or grown, are only entitled to consideration by what they command into the market of public improvement.

It is upon this rule we propose an International Industrial Exposition, as our best Centennial test. The world is humanity's great bazaar, in which each nation is entitled to a section, and each individual to a stall. An International Industrial Exposition is its miniature representative to bring its significance representative to bring its significance within the limits of appliciable investigation, that all nations and individuals may go forth fired with a laudable ambition to excel.

That we are at the end of our first cenas to invite them, and the rest of man-o tury, so far the equal of other nations, as to invite them, and, the reat of mankind to our hospitality, is a wonder of providence. When thirteen depressed and injured colonies were forced into nationality through the firey gate of war, some perhaps asked depreciatingly what is to be hoped or feared from such an insignificant advent to the family of nations? A centuary goes by, and we are prepared fully to file our answer.

In representative specimens at the Exposition, we do not propose to be second to any. In matters utilitarian, Great Britain will be our principal competitor. Astonishing, that the child should so confront the mother! In many things a steam engines, magnetic telegraphs, rail roads, &c., they are mutually indebted and fully co-partners, the hint having been given sometimes at one point, sometimes at the other, and in all cases freely used by both. Indeed by their ability and willingness to improve upon useful hints from any quarter, they are making the world they debtor. They are peers hints from any quarter, they are making the world their debtor. They are peers of Germany in the use of the press, and are accomplishing more by it than was ever possible to all the lost arts combined.

It is not merely by specimens from the rich mineral resources of our country, that we expect to establish our claims to first class nationality and civilization, but rather by evidences of insensitive progress.

The Patent Office is the standing Exposition of the nation—our illustrated history of inventions. Here, in contrast with primitive, we have the very latest specimens of useful and ornate art. While the relic hunter has an ample field for musing, the progressive is enraptured to see how the world moves. The Patent Office building, second only to the Capitol in its architectural proportions and elegance, was, to a creditable extent, built of fees from the numerous depositors of patents. American genius, first developed in the school of extreme necessity, has readily continued its inventions to utilize the most common things for the general good. And should a smile of oreign derision greet our department of notions, it may be well enough to remind the scoffer that by these we have reclaimed a continent from savagery. The Patent Office is the standing Exed a continent from savagery.

The true patent of nature's nobility The true patent of nature's nobility is always in something useful. While statesmonship is important in time and place, still we must look with intensest interest to those who, in the agricultural, mechanical and commercial world, so use nature's laboratory as to command her resources into general use, and thus give statesmanship something to protect and enlarge.

statesmansing something to protect and enlarge.

Accomplished operatives can not be kept out of refined society. They make it, and are independent of those who would build and command the social it, and are independent of those who would build and command the social world by pedigree rather than merit. Nothing that we have namedt is more suggestive than the character of the population by which our successes have been won. In reality, American society is a composite of nearly all national representatives, whose privilege it is to show that the exotics have improved in the transplanting. Already as many colored as Joseph's coat in our population, we still continue to invite all, whether they are accustomed to snowfakes upon their forehead or sun-flashes in their faces, to Americanize, and then at international expositions to place their contributions fearlessly alongside of the best from their respective fatherlands.

As an Industrial Exposition is, according to a hint already dropped, the outgrowth of a christian age, we may be excused for climaxing with a tribute to Christianity at this point.

1. No gentleman is to invite a lady to dance, but to await his invitation.

2. No gentleman is to conduct a lady to or from her seat. He must accept that attention. 3. No gentleman is to offer a chair to a lady.
4. No gentleman is to conduct a lady to supper or serve her when there.
5. All the usual attention from gentlemen are for this night tabooed. They sanguine expectation; and soon they will be specimened at our Exposition. Kings and nobles are embarrassed what to do and nobles are embarrassed what to do with our international invitation. They would be courteous, but the lesson taught is more instructive than pleasing to them When our second centennial shall trans-pire there will be fewer of them to be em-barrassed; for man as man will then stand on a higher plateau, and rejoice in a more perfect transfiguration of our earth.

customary routine of social gatherings.

TRANSPERS OF REAL ESTATE.—The following deeds in fee transferring real estate were yesterday admitted to record in the office of the Clerk of the County Court:

MONTHLY REPORT. — Our efficient Health Officer, Dr. Jepson, submits the following report of deaths in the city during the month of February:

Insunorpination at the Jail.—About 4 o'clock yesterday afternoon there was a hasty summons for the police to go to the assistance of the county jailor. Capt. Ed. Davis and several policemen went to the jail immediately, where they found all quiet. It appears that the prisonners, being at liberty in the hall of the prison as usual, refused to retire to their cells when ordered to do so by the turnkey. After Capt. Davis' arrival, however, the prisoners went to their cells and were locked in. It seems that during the absence of Col. Kennedy, the prisoners meditated a revolt upon Mr Hoffman, the turnkey. The Mayhowa, as usual, were at the bottom of this affair.

A VALUABLE GOLD RING.—On the information of Miss Kate Mooney, a warrent was issued from the office of Justice O'Keeffe for the arrest of one William Wilson. The charge made by Miss Mooney is the larceny of a valuable gold ring, which she claims the said William did willfully and felonously steal, take and carraway from her nemisse. THE AMERICAN PEOPTE.—No people in the world suffer as much with dyspepsia as Americans—and although years of experience in medicine have failed to accomplish a certain and sure remedy until Green's August Flower was introduced for this disease and its effects; yet so well has this remedy succeeded in every case to effect a cure, that there is not a druggist in the United States but recommends the August Flower in all cases of dyspepsia and Liver Complaint, Costiveness, Sour Stomach, Sick Headache, and all derangements of the Stomach and Liver. Sour Stomach, Sick Headache, and all derangements of the Stomach and Liver Go to your Druggists, Logan, List & Co. and get a sample bottle for 10 cents and try it.
